A Manual of Minor Surgery and Bandaging 1889 every art and every inquiry and similarly every action and pursuit is thought to aim at some good and for this reason the good has rightly been declared to be that at which all things aim but a certain difference is found among ends some are activities others are products apart from the activities that produce them where there are ends apart from the actions it is the nature of the products to be better than the activities now as there are many actions arts and sciences their ends also are many the end of the medical art is health that of shipbuilding a vessel that of strategy victory that of economics wealth but where such arts fall under a single capacity as bridle making and the other arts concerned with the equipment of horses fall under the art of riding and this and every military action under strategy in the same way other arts fall under yet others in all of these the ends of the master arts are to be preferred to all the subordinate ends for it is for the sake of the former that the latter are pursued it makes no difference whether the activities themselves are the ends of the actions or something else apart from the activities as in the case of the sciences just mentioned
