questions problems and summaries of economic theories the primary purpose of this manual is to meet the needs of the classes in elementary economics in the university of wisconsin it is the fifth revision and enlargement of a syllabus printed by the author for the use of his students in washington and lee university in 1908 each revision has involved changes to remedy defects which actual experience in the class room have revealed some new problems and quiz questions have also been suggested from time to time by members of the teaching staff and have finally become incorporated in the sets of problems found in this book this manual is based upon and designed for use in connection with elementary outlines of economics all the chapter headings and chapter numbers follow this text with the exception of the chapters on labor which are arranged with special reference to chapters 6 7 8 9 and 10 in carlton's history and problems of organized labor outlines of recent laws such as the federal reserve act the newlands arbitration law and the new anti trust act have also been included in order to make possible uniform required readings on these subjects while the definitions and summaries may be considered very dogmatic when viewed from the standpoint of advanced economic theory it appears to the writer that a larger amount of positiveness is necessary when teaching beginners than is advisable in advanced courses collateral reading and class discussion is relied upon to bring out the controversial aspects of the theories outlined the definitions and summaries are intended primarily to give definiteness and unity to the teaching in the quiz sections some of the definitions are the result of compromises growing out of discussions carried on in the weekly conferences of the instructors in charge of quiz sections in the course among the men who in this way have directly and indirectly contributed to this work are mr lee bidgood professor of political economy university of alabama mr f h bird expert with the federal
